Palletways opens up European wine market for UK customers

Dixon Forwarding is a food and wine supplier based in Dover in the UK and has been working with Palletways Member Frederick R Miller for the past 25 years.

Access to Palletways' extensive network throughout Europe has played a pivotal role in the expansion of Dixon Forwarding's business. Not only has it enabled the company to remain competitive and responsive to customer demand, it has ensured its customers continue to receive a seamless, reliable and quality service.

"No other pallet network can provide the sophisticated tracking and daily transportation provided by Palletways' unique business model. Instant Proof of Delivery and the added bonus of an extensive network of hubs across Europe means we are able to offer an enviable, award-winning service. By using the Palletways' international service, Dixon Forwarding has grown from strength to strength and has recently entered the Hungarian market using its new Palletways network in Hungary."

The challenge

Dixon Forwarding supplies a large range of different wines, spirits and beers from across Europe, including France, Spain, Italy, Portugal, Germany and Benelux. To provide their customers with the best possible service, Dixon Forwarding was seeking a reliable pallet carrier that had the expertise to transport its alcoholic products across Europe efficiently and cost-effectively.

Palletways ensures Dixon Forwarding is given full visibility in real time from collection to delivery ensuring full traceability and added security for valuable products like wine and spirits.

To support exporters, Palletways has also developed a service that enables customers to manage excise duty payments on alcoholic products, which is of particular benefit to those shipping to the UK.

The Solution

The Palletways' European network covering 23 hubs and over 400 Member depots gives Dixon Forwarding the extensive access it needs to distribute its range of wines, spirits and beers.

Thanks to Palletways' unrivalled drop density and depot network throughout Europe, Dixon Forwarding is able to transport its drinks to customers faster and more cost-effectively than any other pallet carrier.

As drinks are a foodstuff, traceability of every batch sent through the Palletways' network is crucial. With its innovative track and trace service
